Feix feels Western has turned corner

By LEE GRACE

In Coach Jimmy Feix's mind, Western's embarrassing 49-0 loss to Murray two years ago started Western on a downward spin that would see the team fall to the edge of Division II status.

But with Western's 27-20 season-ending win last year over Murray, Feix believes the Hilltoppers are ready to return to the glory days of the past.

"Before the Murray game, everytime we turned around we got stuffed," Feix said. "We got beat 49-0 (in 1980) and began a series of downward steps that left us where we are today.

"But when we beat Murray, I felt we turned the corner and are headed back."

But to keep that turn from becoming a U-turn, the Hilltoppers' offense will have to balance its act.

But with the departure of quarterback Ralph Antone, fans probably will see Western go to a more balanced attack with the emphasis on the running game.

With Ty Campbell at fullback and Glendell Miller at tailback, the Hilltoppers should have the balance of speed and power in the backfield that will put points on the board.

And if Western is to do well early, the running game will have to supply the punch until quarterback Scott Travis gains some experience.

The 6-3 sophomore has thrown only 14 passes during his college career. He spent most of his playing time last year being chased by opposing linemen.

Feix is not hiding the fact that he is concerned about his young quarterback.

"He really hasn't done enough this fall to see if he's made any progress from the spring," Feix said. "We've been pleased with the workouts with the receivers, but until you get past that first game, you just can't tell how he'll do."

If Travis were to fall, Justin Diel, a 6-1 sophomore, would be next in line. But count on Feix to stick with Travis unless something drastic happens.

The new quarterback also will be seeing new receivers. Gone from last year's 5-5 team are John Newby, Ron Hunter, Jo-Jo Lee and

Questions answered in fall preview

How will Western's football team perform with an untested quarterback, but with plenty of speed in the backfield? Will Paul Gray repeat as an All-American at linebacker?

Will the men's cross country team be able to repeat as Sun Belt champions, or will former champion South Alabama come back to regain the crown? Will the women's cross country team continue in mediocrity, or will this be their year?

Can the soccer team really be more competitive in only its second year of existence?

Will Jim Richards' golf team again finish a close third, or will it capture the Sun Belt championship?

How will Nancy Quarcalino's golfers handle the rebuilding job that is ahead of them?

You can begin to find the answers to these and other pressing sports questions in the 1983 fall sports preview on this and the following pages.

On this page is the football preview and inside there are articles on the men's and women's cross country teams, the men's and women's golf teams and the soccer team. There are also short articles on a few of the events that happened in the Western sports world this past summer.

With untested quarterback, Hilltoppers will run more in '83

In the past decade, the key factors to the Hilltoppers' football success were an experienced quarterback running what was usually a potent passing attack and a tough defense.

In 1983, the second year of independence for Hilltopper football, the factors that will determine the team's success will be quite different.

The defense, which had an off year in 1982, should be strong again with lettermen returning at almost every position.

Mark C. Mathis

But, with a starting quarterback who has thrown but 14 passes in his collegiate career, the emphasis will switch from an aerial attack to one that depends more on the legs of its runners.

Scott Travis is the man who will be calling the signals for the Hilltoppers when they square off with Louisville Sept. 10 in Cardinal Stadium. The Glasgow native more than proved himself in high school as he ran for 599 yards and completed 52 percent of his passes for 1,537 yards during his senior season with the Scotties on the way to All-State honors.

However, the college game is quite different, as Travis found out when he stumbled off the field in the waning moments of last season's Eastern game after being unceremoniously hurled to the Smith Stadium turf by an Eastern lineman.

Coach Jimmy Feix has been doing some wondering about Travis himself.

"You don't know what you're going to do, particularly without an experienced quarterback," Feix said of his team's chances this year.

"We haven't done enough this fall to see if he's made any progress since spring," Feix added. "He's intelligent and has a lot of confidence. He's just too intelligent not to handle the challenge."

Travis came out of spring practice with an edge over fellow sophomore Justin Diel, and Feix was quoted last week saying that Travis would have to be pretty bad before he would remove him from the starting spot. Travis will be the man that the Hilltoppers will have to count on.

Being an inexperienced quarterback, Travis probably won't be

Papaioannou confident with recruits

Coach begins 2nd year with time to prepare

By STEVE THOMAS

Western finished 6-7-2 last season in its first year of competition in college soccer and this year Coach Neophytos Papaioannou feels confident because he will field the first team he has recruited.

"Now with the recruiting we've done, we'll be much more competitive," Papaioannou said.

Last season Papaioannou coached a team that consisted entirely of walk-ons and players from tryouts. This year Papaioannou will field a team that is mostly of his own composition.

"I feel better than I did last year," Papaioannou said. "I know what I have."

What Papaioannou has is a lot of freshmen and only 10 returning players. However, that number is small because Papaioannou had players that he simply did not want to keep.

Seventeen freshmen showed up for a pre-tryout training camp

Soccer

Papaioannou held Aug. 15-20. Of the 17, seven are recruits and have already made the team. Papaioannou said that he did not want to discuss any of his freshmen players until after the main tryouts Aug. 22-24 at the College of Education field.

Papaioannou said that although he felt good about his freshman players, his returning players would "form the skeleton of the team."

Felix Ede, a sophomore from Nigeria, will return at right fullback. Papaioannou will also get back his entire mid-field line of Bruce Rigsby, Polycarpus Melais and Isarji Sardin. Returning forwards are Jorge Mitsicostas, Douglass Gorman and Charles Okafor. Both goal keepers, Kevin Duffey and Marcus Suter, return.

Western also will be without

Although Western lost its first Sun Belt tourney game last year, Coach Neophytos Papaioannou hopes his team will become competitive in the league this season.

some of its key players from last year. Victor Hayes, who was described as the entire Western offense, graduated. Left fullback Chris Borowiecki dropped out of school and returned to Clarksville, Tenn., because of family reasons.

However, Papaioannou expects a better season.

"Our goal is to go out and win every game," he said. "We treat every game separately and go for a win all the time."

Papaioannou hopes to give enough experience to the younger players so that the team will be better next year.

"My philosophy is to do the best with what I've got," Papaioannou said. "I'll never stop pushing for more, but I'll do the best with what I've got."

The team has been given almost no increase in its budget, he said, and the team still offers no scholarships. However, Papaioannou is pleased with the players he has recruited.

"When I went out to recruit them I looked for the things (such as skill, perceptiveness, intelligence and athletic ability) that would help them adjust to the college game," Papaioannou said.

He hopes that his new players will be able to improve on last year's showing in the Sun Belt Conference tournament. Last year Western lost to Old Dominion in the first round.

This year, the tournament will be hosted by Old Dominion in Norfolk, Va., on Nov. 4-6. The 17-game schedule opens with a trip to Dayton, Ohio, on Sept. 14.

Richards optimistic of team's chances

By STEVE THOMAS

Sixth-year coach Jim Richards is optimistic about his team's chances with three of the top five players returning from last year, plus several transfers and incoming freshmen.

"We had a solid season last year," Richards said. "We should have a pretty good season this year."

The Toppers finished a close third in the Sun Belt Conference tournament last year, trailing Old Dominion and South Florida. Western would like nothing better than to win the title this year.

Richards said the fall season is shorter and sometimes not played with the same intensity than it is in the spring. But, he said, without a good fall, "you don't get into the good tournaments in the spring."

Richards hopes for the coming year rely on seniors Scott Beard and Bob Fannin and juniors Mike Newton and Phil McQuitty.

But one player Richards was counting on had decided not to play golf this year. Phillip Hatchett, who had the lowest average on the team last fall, decided to redshirt and use his final year of eligibility next season. Richards said Hatchett wants to concentrate on academics and he feels he can contribute more to the team next year.

In addition to Hatchett, Richards loses Rick Hudelson, who has completed his eligibility.

However, Richards thinks he has players who can fill the spots.

Richards also has three promising transfer students, Eddie Carmichael and Mike Bolding from the University of Tennessee and Steve Pritchett from Evansville.

Men's golf

Junior college players trying for a place on the team include John Pierce from Kellogg Junior College in Battle Creek, Mich., and Roger Wallace, a native of Grand Prairie, Alberta, Canada, who attended Wyauapi Junior College in Prescott, Ariz.

The freshman crop is headed by Matt St. Louis, a native of Windsor, Ontario. He is competing in the Canadian National Amateur after winning first place in his province.

Richards is also hoping that another Canadian, Paul Fritz from Kitchener, Ontario, will be able to contribute to Western's success.

Richards said he will probably have a squad of 12 players who will compete for the five tournament slots.

The season begins with a tournament Sept. 16-18 on Murray's new golf course. The second meet is Sept. 22-25 at Ohio State. The Buckeyes finished second in the National Collegiate Athletic Association last season.

Western travels to Eastern on Oct. 1-2. On Oct. 8-9, Western will be the host for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Championship at Indian Hills Country Club. That meet, the first one here in some time, is expected to attract Murray, Louisville, Kentucky, Eastern and Morehead.

The final tournament of the fall is Oct. 13-16 at Memphis State.

Richards said a good fall season is important so the team can qualify for the NCAA tournament in the spring.

Toppers expect to win again

By BRENT WOODS

With seven of the team's top runners returning, Western again appears to be the team to beat in the Sun Belt Conference.

The Toppers have all of the tools necessary to defend Western's first conference championship — depth, experience and raw talent, Coach Curtiss Long said.

The team, which includes five all-conference runners, will be paced by seniors Simon Cahill and Ashley Johnson. Cahill, an All-American, is the defending Sun Belt champion, and Johnson was runner-up.

The other all-conference performers are sophomore Jon Barker and juniors Cam Hubbard and Mike Snyder. Barker placed fifth, Hubbard was ninth and Snyder was 10th as the Toppers captured Western's only Sun Belt title last year.

Pushing the top five again this year will be senior Larry Parks.

Freshman Philip Ryan, who is from the same South African town as Johnson, was the South African high school champion. He has "fantastic potential," Long said.

Men's cross country

Freshman Sean George, who hails from Capetown, completes Western's "South African connection." George is the top-ranked South African at 3,000 meters.

"These two young runners (Ryan and George) have an abundance of talent and ran at a very high level in high school," Long said.

Long also will keep a watchful eye on the progress of freshmen Mike McMahon and Ron Chestnut and sophomores Stan Syra, Jeff Peebles, Jim Ownbey, Steve Neel, Pat Alexander, Andrew Fritz, Gene Unclebach, John Thomas and Bryan Blankenship.

Juniors Bruce Law, Mark Veal and Kerry Quarles and senior John Wyatt will also return to the squad this year.

The team which will compete in the Sun Belt meet in Norfolk, Va., on Nov. 5 probably will not be decided until after the Alabama Invitational Oct. 22.

"In track," Long said, "the coaches don't really decide who will run; the runners themselves do according to their meet times and finishes."

Long expects 1981 Sun Belt champion South Alabama, the team that finished second last year, to provide the toughest conference competition. Long said South Florida and Old Dominion also were "very strong."

The Toppers have avoided injuries, except for a pulled thigh muscle that slowed Ryan's summer training.

"A team can run great all year, but what it all comes down to is having your best squad healthy and ready to run the day of the conference meet," Long said.

If Long's hopes for this season materialize, the Toppers will peak in November for the conference meet and NCAA competition.

Western's first meet will be the Indiana State Invitational on Sept. 3 in Evansville.

Although defending the Sun Belt title puts Western under some additional pressure, Long is ready.

"We want a distance running tradition here at Western; it's the kind of pressure we like."

Long is building foundation.

By BRENT WOODS

This year's Lady Toppers are few in number, but Coach Curtiss Long is building a foundation on talented young runners.

Expected to lead the pack this year is Camille Forrester, a junior from Louisville.

"Camille has excellent potential, and she stayed in great shape all summer," Long said.

Tonya Fowlkes, a junior from Detroit, Mich., is described by Long as "one of those people who just runs with style." He said Fowlkes was primarily a middle distance runner, but had been maturing into the longer distances.

Last year's Kentucky high school two-mile champion, Kitty Davidson, and freshman Bethany

Women's cross country

Stubbs, the top cross country senior in Oklahoma last year, are the newcomers Long is counting on to give the program a boost.

Long also expects senior Theresa Sparks to run well this year because of her determination.

"Theresa is only in her second year of running," Long said, "but she is a very tough competitor. If you finish ahead of her, you've earned it."

Long said his immediate goals were to be competitive on a regional basis and develop team spirit.

"Eventually, we hope to build the same kind of program for the women as we have for the men here at Western," Long said.

Since the Sun Belt does not sponsor women's cross country, most of Western's competition will come from Ohio Valley Conference schools Murray, Eastern, Austin Peay and Middle Tennessee as well as Indiana and Alabama.

Long said anyone who wants to run can try out. "We don't cut anyone. Anybody who wants to work hard and develop to their own potential can walk on."

The Toppers will open their season at the Indiana State Invitational in Evansville Sept. 3.

Feix predicts better days

doing much passing in the early stages of the season. What he probably will be doing is handing the ball to either Glendell Miller, Danny Embree or Ty Campbell.

Miller will probably get the starting nod over Embree on the strength of a good spring, and his 170-yard performance against Murray in last season's finale.

Embree rushed for 557 yards during his sophomore season, an average of 5.7 yards a carry, and looked to be the Hilltoppers' next running star. However, he was sidelined last season with academic difficulties.

Feix wasn't surprised when Miller came through with the big game against Murray last season. He said that Miller would have had several games like the Murray showing last season if he hadn't been injured in the first game against Louisville.

Miller got turf toe in the Louisville game and never could really shake it until the end of the season.

Although Feix wouldn't tip his hand, he suggested that a situation could develop where Embree and Miller would alternate at the tailback slot. If that happens, and look for it to, it could bring back memories of the early 1970s, when Danny's brother, John Embree, and Clarence Jackson terrorized opponents by combining for more than 4,500 yards during their three years in Hilltopper uniforms.

Campbell has proven himself as an able blocker and receiver coming out of his fullback slot, which will open up another dimension in the Hilltopper offense.

"We'll have more play-action type passes that will come off the running attack," Feix said.

Another fact that should make the running game a viable alternative is that four of the five starting interior linemen are experienced seniors.

The defense features the three top tacklers on last season's team, with All-American Paul Gray, Robert Ray and Walter York filling the linebacker spots. The defensive line comes back virtually intact. The only question mark is the secondary, where the cornerback spots are still up for grabs.

Feix feels that although his team has fallen on some bad times in the past couple of years, better days are ahead with the extra scholarships and coaches time that the Board of Regents approved last spring.

"If nothing else, the coaches have more planning time. I don't know if we were out coached last year, but we'll be competing against more teams whose coaches don't teach," Feix said.

Feix thinks his team has turned a corner mentally, and now he has to do the more visible things like decrease the operating deficit and put more people in the seats in Smith Stadium.

The first test to see if the factors have come together will be on the second Saturday in September in Louisville.

Toppers expecting a rebuilding year

By STEVE THOMAS

Coach Nancy Quarcelino faces a rebuilding year with only one player returning from last year's squad.

"Our basic goals are to create a unity and to teach them (the new players) how to play college golf," she said. Quarcelino's oldest player will be sophomore Jane Shoemaker.

"I'm looking for fine things from her," Quarcelino said. "Jane is going to basically be our leader. She is a fiery individual."

Missy Pruitt, Western's top woman golfer a year ago, will not return to the team. Pruitt had academic problems and quit.

Quarcelino must turn to her incoming freshmen to do the job. She said that they have a lot of potential and are fine golfers. Five of the new players are from Indiana. Quarcelino said that most of them finished in the top 15 in the state in high school golf last year.

The new players are Beth Bachman, a native of Anderson, Ind.; Jane Bair, from Fort Wayne, Ind.; Ann Cain of Martinsville, Ind.; and Susan Randell of Carmel, Ind.

The only Kentucky native on the team will be sophomore Emily Giltner of Erlanger. Giltner broke her ankle last year and was unable to play. She will be a walk-on this season in her freshman year of eligibility. The other member of the seven-player squad is Cindy Stuck of Cartersville, Ill. Stuck is a transfer from Southeast Missouri in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

ROTC offers scholarships

The Army ROTC is offering two partial scholarships that pay for room and books for positions on the varsity rifle team.

Capt. David Cannon said anyone could apply for the scholarships, but he said freshmen with high school riflery competition would have an edge. A person doesn't have to be enrolled in ROTC to participate in the only co-ed varsity sport at Western.

Practice sessions will be worked

Wilson drafted by Sonics; McFarland hired as coach

Former Western forward Tony Wilson was selected by the Seattle Supersonics in the sixth round of the National Basketball Association's draft.

Wilson completed his career with the Hilltoppers this season by leading the team in both scoring and rebounding. He scored 14.6 points a game and pulled down 6.1 rebounds a game.

Known during his career by the nickname, "TWA" (Tony Wilson Airlines) he made 63 dunks during his four year stint at Western, and had career averages of 11.5 points and 5.2 rebounds a game.

During Western's final years in the Ohio Valley Conference, Wilson was on the All-OVC Freshman team and ended his career as a second team All-Sun Belt Conference selection.

Women's golf

Quarcelino also has three other transfer students, but they will be ineligible to play this year. They are Susan Spino from Pepper Pike, Ohio, and twins Vicky and Valerie Vaughn of Vestavia Hills, Ala. All three are transferring from Troy State in Alabama.

Quarcelino said that she would play everyone on the team. Other than exposing the players to college golf, the only goal she has set for the team is to finish in the top half in each tournament.

"It's going to be a lot of fun," she said. "We're just going to do the best we can."

The Lady Toppers' fall season will begin Sept. 16-17 at Indiana University. On Sept. 18-19 they travel to Purdue in West Lafayette, Ind. Quarcelino said her main reason in playing two matches in Indiana at the beginning of the year is to give the Indiana natives on the team a chance to play in front of their parents and friends.

On Oct. 2-4 the team will travel to Memphis State. They will play in a tournament at the University of Kentucky Nov. 6-8. The fall season is one tournament longer than usual, which means the spring season includes only three tournaments. The highlight of the spring season will be a tournament April 7-8 at Indian Hills Country Club in Bowling Green.

out between the instructors, Coach Chris Laird and the team members. Practices will be two or three times a week for about two hours.

Anyone interested in trying out for the rifle team should contact Cannon or Master Sgt. Lewis McCarter in room 126 of Diddle Arena by Friday or call 745-4293 or 745-4294.

During the 1982-83 season, Wilson passed the 1,000 point mark and finished 12th on the Hilltoppers all-time scoring list with 1,305 points.

Wilson will have to successfully complete the Sonics free agent — rookie camp before he will be signed by the team.

Donnie McFarland, a former part-time aide to Clem Haskins, was named to replace Ray Hite as an assistant on Western's men's team. McFarland was chosen this past June after Hite resigned to enter private business in Washington D.C.

McFarland returns to Western after a two year stint at Simon Kenton High School in Independence. His team's posted 10-16 and 16-13 marks.

New foes on schedule

Mark Nelson, who accounted for 65 percent of the team's receptions.

Trying to fill the void are Alan Mullins at split end, Charlie Houser at flanker and Mickey Lewis at tight end.

For a change, though, the offensive line appears to be the strongest part of Western's attack. Although the line may not be the biggest in the world (it averages 6-3, 241 pounds), it has experience.

If Western is to improve, the big turnaround will have to come from the defense, which allowed 20 points per game.

The key to the defense will be a trio of senior linebackers — All-American Paul Gray, Walter York and Robert Ray. The three were the leading tacklers last year and are expected to be the "nuts and bolts" of Western's defense.

But the defensive secondary is weak, and Feix hasn't decided the starters at the cornerback positions. Reginald Johnson and Ronnie Fishback have the inside track at cornerback, while Greg Barnes and Randy Grimes have the other two defensive backfield spots nailed down.

Feix also is having to replace most of his specialty unit as both kickers and his No. 1 return man, Davlin Mullin, have departed.

Sophomore Walter Haberlock is expected to take over as the placekicker, while freshman Adam Lindsey has been tabbed as the team's punter. Miller or Houser probably will fill the spot left by Mullin.

If Western is going to head back to the status it once held, it's going to have to beat some pretty tough people.

Heading the Toppers' 11-game schedule is Division I-AA champion Eastern, playoff quarterfinalist Eastern Illinois and Division I-A upstart Louisville.

Mixed with the usual sprinkling of Ohio Valley Conference teams is one new face. Here is a brief outlook on each team.

LOUISVILLE

If the Cardinals should survive their opener in Dallas against Southern Methodist University, which was ranked No. 2 last year and is a shoe-in for top 20 status this year, they will face a Western team looking for revenge.

Last year, Louisville handed Western a 20-10 loss in the opener for both teams, but with the loss of nine starters on defense, things could be rough for Louisville on Sept. 10.

And, considering the Cardinal defense all but fell apart last year after its first game, Coach Bob Weber is going to need help.

To counteract the inexperience on defense, Louisville is going to head for the skies. Senior quarterback Dean May will throw as many as 40 passes a game.

But if Western's defensive secondary does not shape up, by then, it could be a long day for both defenses.

AKRON

The Zips and Western have been opponents long before Akron joined the OVC and Western dropped out. Over the years, the teams have played some nip-and-tuck games.

Akron is given a good chance of knocking off Eastern.

Coach Ken MacDonald returns 43 lettermen, including 31 who have been starters.

James Black, the key to the team's offense, rushed for 1,188 yards in only nine games last year. With Ed Grimsley on defense, the Zips are expected to give Western a hard way to go Sept. 17 in the Rubber Bowl.

SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA

With the return of 10 defensive starters and seven offensive starters, better things are expected from the Lions of Hammond, La.

The Lions suffered through a 4-7 season a year ago when Jerry Butler led the team in rushing with 902 yards. He is expected to be the key to the team's attack this season.

YOUNGSTOWN STATE

With the loss of All-American running back Paris Wicks and most of the offense, the pressure will be on the Penguin defense to keep the team from falling apart.

The team's strength will be in the secondary and at linebacker, but a major change is needed on offense.

Coach Bill Narduzzi is expected to go to a system that will make better use of option quarterback Griffin Keys.

Youngstown finished 6-5 and tied for third place last year. However, the Penguins are expected to finish no better than sixth this year.

TENNESSEE TECH

Tennessee Tech should improve on last year's 3-8 record with the addition of a new coach, Gary Darnell, and two quarterbacks who have thrown for more than 1,000 yards.

The Golden Eagles return 15 starters and are a very outside shot for the OVC title.

The defense is anchored by nose guard Manny Michel and a pair of good, young linebackers, Jeff Daughtry and Skeet Owen.

EASTERN

What can be said about Eastern other than what's been said before at the start of a season.

The Colonels are coming off a national championship, but have lost so many people that there is no way Coach Roy Kidd could repeat as national champion.

Somehow, though, Kidd always finds the right combination and this year should be no different.

Kidd has to pick between two freshman quarterbacks, replace an All-American receiver and eight defensive starters before his Sept. 3 season opener with East Tennessee.

But with four starters returning on offense, Kidd will have a good nucleus to build on. The offense is highlighted by tailback Terence Thompson, All-OVC center Chris Sullivan and tight end Tron Armstrong, a preseason All-American.

Defense, though, will be a question as only six players have seen playing time.

But come Oct. 22, all that will not make a difference as the teams clash in Richmond in the series that began in 1914.

MOREHEAD

Two years ago, Morehead was 1-9. Last year the Eagles finished 5-6. This could be the year for the Eagles to break the 500 mark.

Last year the Eagles gained only 235 yards a game, 91 of them on the ground. The keys will be quarterback Mike Hanlin who will be looking to complete many passes to All-OVC receiver Mark Ledford.

The defense is also having to fill the void left by the loss of All-OVC linebacker Danny Gooch, who helped Morehead to the 14th ranked defense in I-AA last season.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE

The Blue Raiders are coming off their best record in a decade, 8-3, and a third-place finish in the OVC. Couple this with a team that may have one of the most potent attacks in the OVC and you've got a team that could do just as well again.

Middle returns nine offensive starters but only two starters from last year's defense.

If the Blue Raiders can pull together a defense by the time they meet Western, Middle could hand the Toppers their third straight loss in the series.

EASTERN ILLINOIS

The Panthers were ranked No. 5 in I-AA last year and reached the quarterfinals of the playoffs before losing to Tennessee State. This season they are again picked to make the playoffs.

New coach Al Molde has 16 starters returning, but the Panthers lost quarterback Jeff Christensen, who holds most of the school's passing records. Returning, though, is 1,000-yard rusher Kevin Staple.

MURRAY

The Racers return only five starters, but that should be good news to Coach Frank Beamer considering his team went 4-7 last year.

If those players who have either transferred or were redshirted last year don't come through, Murray's horse may not be running many laps around the track.

First lesson:

Choosing the right
pizza delivery company.

Some places will do anything to sell you a pizza. Free video tokens. Free chicken wings with your pizza. Some places will even "clone" your pizza and give you the "clone" free.

But, as many will learn, there are some things you don't need two of.

Lesson #1

It is, therefore, better to forsake the gimmicks and put your money on the people who invented free, 30 minute delivery.

Yes, we are the original FREE delivery people, the first to promise 30 minute delivery and we're the only one who guarantees it: 30 minutes or FREE!

Now, we could give you free video tokens, but then we wouldn't be concentrating on the most important things: Getting you a hot, delicious, oven-baked pizza-fast!

Count on it.

From America's favorite pizza delivery company to you!
